STEVE BRICKNER

FOUNDER & CEO

KRAKEN TECHNOLOGY SOLUTIONS

Steve Brickner helps business leaders transform technology into a strategic advantage through executive leadership, cybersecurity, artificial intelligence, and governance.

As Founder and CEO of Kraken Technology Solutions, he works with organizations across healthcare, manufacturing, finance, professional services, nonprofits, construction, logistics, agriculture, education, and more to align technology with business objectives, strengthen security and compliance, and drive operational excellence.

With more than a decade of executive experience, Steve combines deep technical expertise with practical business insight to help organizations reduce risk, improve efficiency, and build the foundation for sustainable growth. He is recognized for his ability to translate complex technology into clear strategies that executives can trust and teams can execute.

Steve is a frequent speaker for business organizations, executive forums, industry associations, and community groups. His presentations provide practical insights on artificial intelligence, cybersecurity, Microsoft 365, compliance, governance, and digital transformation—equipping leaders with the clarity and confidence to make informed decisions in today's rapidly evolving technology landscape.
